Dietz's Diamond Oil.

WE NOW OFFER TO THE PUBLIC in full confidence a new article of

KEROSENE OIL,

Which we warrant in every particular to be

Superior to any other Oil ever brought to the San Francisco market. It has been thoroughly tested in all the different Patent Coal Oil Burners, and found to produce

More Light and Burn Longer

by one-third, than any other oil in use

Among the many advantages of this KEROSENE OIL over other oil is First that it is perfectly NON EXPLOSIVE and can be used with perfect safety in all kinds of LAMPS Second, It is free from all objectionable and unpleasant smells, and burns with a clear white brilliant flame. We cordially solicit the public and FAMILIES to give this Oil a trial and once tried we feel confident it will gain a preference over all other Oil for economy as well as its superior burning qualities

In order to protect ourselves against Counterfeits we have placed a brand on each can and case, which will be known as

DIETZ'S DIAMOND OIL.

It is now offered at wholesale and retail at

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 8, 1862

The Overland Immigration

We have received a private letter from Capt. Medorem Crawford, who was appointed by President Lincoln to raise, equip, and command an escort for the overland emigrants bound for this coast, from the Atlantic States. His appointment is in accordance with an act of Congress appropriating the sum of $20,000 for the purpose of raising and equipping a volunteer company to escort and protect the emigration across the plains from molestation by savages and other hostile bands of marauders which have infested the route for many years past. The letter is dated at St Louis, May 26th, and informs us that Capt Crawford had been there three days purchasing supplies, &c., for his trip, though he found some difficulty in procuring the articles necessary, and had to pay much higher prices than he did last year, in consequence of the great demand for similar articles for the Government. Still, he says that he will be able to purchase everything necessary with the funds placed at his disposal. He expected to start for St. Joseph on the 26th, where the mules, wagons &c. are being collected by his assistants. Most of his men had been engaged at that time and were collecting at Omaha. His company will consist of fifty mounted men, armed with revolving pistols and breech-loading rifles; these, with the teamsters, herders, &c., will make the entire party number about seventy five. He states that his employees have been carefully selected, mostly from the older States, and are all industrious, steady young men who desire to make Oregon and Washington their homes, and what is of equal importance, they are good Union men. No man who ever had any "secesh" about him will be allowed in the company.

Capt. Crawford states that from various reliable sources he has learned that the emigration westward, this year, is very large, and that nearly all are bound for Oregon and Washington; also, that many families had already started across the plains, which he fears were illy provided for the trip, and that in consequence, he will find much difficulty to get them through, and may be considerably later in crossing this year than last. He expected to leave Omaha about the 10th of June, which was four days later than last year; but he understands the grass is good on the road, and as he will have mule teams instead of oxen, he thinks he can soon gain the time, and will be, doubtless, able to travel faster than the emigrants. His position, however, will be in the rear, as those last coming through are most likely to suffer. It is sincerely hoped that the emigration may all get through in good style, and we have the fullest confidence that Capt Crawford will do everything that can possibly be done to assist them over the weary road. His experience will enable him to perform the duties assigned to his command in an able and efficient manner, and the protection afforded will doubtless secure the safe arrival to our State, of a large and important addition to our population. We shall, probably, hear from him again as he advances.

On our visit to Vancouver, we heard said that several of the persons nominated on what is called the "Democratic Union ticket" are about to decline. This may or may not be true. We tell the tale as it was told us. The grounds for this action on the part of some of the nominees are—that they have been sympathizers with the Southern movements—that they have imprudently expressed their opinions—and that their election would present some evidence, that at least a portion of Washington Territory was hostile to the Union,—which would be productive of no good, but injury to the Territory. It is also added that many of their friends desire them to decline, for, if they do not, they will vote for them with very great regret. It is said that the candidate for Councilman, and the three candidates for the lower House are of those who will decline. The candidate for Prosecuting Attorney is also said to be in this category. If this rumor is correct, we shall see their declinations in a few days. The candidate on the ticket for Auditor is a firm Union man.

We are glad to hear of this movement—it is a salutary evidence of a wholesome public opinion.

Several mercantile firms in New Orleans have written to their Northern creditors since that city was reopened to Commerce, offering to remit the account of their indebtedness.

From our Salmon River Correspondent

Letter No. VII

Florence City June 20th, 1862

The express leaves in the morning and I send you a line. [illegible] Thursday last but to my knowledge this is the first express that has gone out from here.

The trip from Lewiston here is, in many respects delightful but I will not now give you a description of the varied scenery. [illegible] and hills and brooks and mountains [illegible] at one on the way [illegible] to enthusiasm [illegible] only to be succeeded by another and sweeter, and so the traveler [illegible] as he journeys, and [illegible] passing years into days.

FLORENCE CITY

As Moses, after a forty years' jaunt through the wilderness, beheld from the height of Pisgah the promised land, so the gold hunter, sore footed and weary, from the summit of Mount Salmon, beholds some fifteen miles distant in an elevated plain classic Florence with its streets of pearl and its golden spire gleaming in the kiss of the morning sun, and as the cry of 'land! land!' ran among that band who, over a pathless sea, had found a new world, so 'Florence! Florence!' has been uttered by thousands of pilgrims whose steps have led them to this golden Mecca to offer if not the purest the sincerest devotion of their hearts. The town is situated in an elevated plain of say twelve by eighteen miles and is perhaps from five hundred to one thousand feet below the summit of Salmon Mountain, and on an elevation of perhaps twelve hundred feet above the sea, being one of the highest inhabitated spots on the globe in the midst of a large basin, with numerous streams, hills and gulches, in and around it. It has only two streets, Main and Miner, crossing each other at right angles and has perhaps one hundred and twenty buildings, frame and log, with tents interspersed, and for a new place compactly built, and the circumstances considered well built. There are perhaps three hundred log cabins directly up to the town, and on the hills and in the ravines and gulches occupied by the miners, and perhaps five hundred tents occupied by miners and parties here seeking something to do. It is a better built town than Lewiston and as the growth of this Spring with lumber from thirty cents to one dollar per foot, and gotten out by "whip saws" alone, I think the people here are entitled to credit for energy.

THE EXTENT OF THE MINING CAMP

The district now worked is about sixty four miles, and there are perhaps one hundred creeks, ravines and gulches worked, in all directions in and about the town, varying in length from one hundred yards to six miles.

NUMBER OF CLAIMS

To say just how many claims are worked is out of the question. Many here will tell you from twenty five hundred to three thousand, and few will place the number under two thousand, and some place it as high as four thousand. From personal observation and partly from the estimates of parties here I should say the claims now worked are not less than fifteen hundred and not over two thousand. A claim here is one hundred and fifty feet along the gulch with two hundred feet laterally, and if placed in a continuous line would extend from forty to sixty miles.

RICHNESS OF THE DIGGINGS

The accounts we have had from time to time of the rich yields of this or that claim have not been exaggerated and many claims have paid richer than outsiders know. As now yielding, I should say two eighths of the claims "pay grub," five eighths pay per day from two to four ounces, and the other eighth from four ounces up to ten, twenty, fifty, one hundred, and one hundred and fifty ounces per day—the number rapidly decreasing as you touch the highest figures. The daily yield of the mines here cannot be less than fifty thousand dollars, and perhaps nearer one hundred thousand. Of course both the divisions here made of the claims and the general daily yield are conjectured, and after all is only a guess founded on the opinions of numerous miners, and observations made in different camps. Two men, since I have been here, took out of a claim in Babboon Gulch, in one day, seven pounds, and one claim in Pioneer Gulch yielded fifty four pounds in two days. Eight men from Marion county, Oregon, bought the "Three fingered Claim" some ten days ago, paying five thousand dollars in cash, and they informed me that in eight days' work they had paid for the claims, taking out in one day one thousand and twenty eight dollars, and on another day five hundred and seventy dollars in some four hours. They run three sluices, and work some ten hands. There are perhaps four thousand men working these mines, and two or three thousand in and about town with nothing to do, and with but little 'grub' and less money.

NO NEW DIGGINGS

You will hear various reports about new diggings, but although thousands have searched and are now prospecting, we have no reliable news here of any new diggings that pay. The general opinion is that new diggings will be found, but the most experienced think it will be later in the season as the snow and high water are yet serious obstacles to prospecting in those places where gold is more likely to be deposited.

THE HEALTH OF THIS CAMP

Perhaps no place on this continent, with six thousand inhabitants, has as many sick people and so few that are really well. Many attribute this partly to the water, which is generally used out of "prospect holes" and is more or less impregnated with minerals and particularly mica. There is something in this, but I think not much. The main reason is the great altitude of this place and the frequent and sudden changes of temperature. You live on half supply of air, and sensibly and uncomfortably feel it. You get out of breath on working or going up the least hill, and you find yourself often drawing a full inhalation as a relief to the unpleasant feeling of tightness about your chest. Perhaps one thousand at least of the six thousand here have a dry, hacking cough, and many say half here have, and but few of the remainder have much strength or health. I should not have believed that the altitude would affect one sensibly if I had not to some extent realized it myself, and witnessed the effect on hundreds around me. The changes are sudden—hot sun in mid day, with heavy thunder nearly every evening and currents of cold air rushing down from the surrounding mountains and cutting through you.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

If you have a home and anything to do don't come here. Work your farm, rock the baby, wring out the clothes, work the garden, make the fire in the stove, run on errands and make yourself useful generally. If you have nothing to do at home and are [illegible] come here. Or if you have money enough to bring you here and take you home, and wish to learn a little [illegible] romantic, and [illegible], by all means come to Salmon.

I will [illegible] with [illegible] and perhaps with a few words about the mining [illegible] here, and [illegible] Correspondents [illegible] in Salmon and some [illegible] the [illegible] things in this town. OBSERVER.

[illegible] the troops [illegible] ordered to Vancouver. [illegible] at Camp Chehalis [illegible] Major Rains [illegible] has been ordered to Camp Baker in Southern Oregon and it is expected will [illegible] duty in the Klamath Lake country.

[illegible] that Confederate privateers would capture the California [illegible], but the case is now directly reversed.

NOT [illegible].—A portion of the secesh prisoners at Chicago [illegible] escape recently. They were to seize and bind the guards and then run. One of their number peached, the guards were doubled and at the hour fixed for the rush the rebels were confronted by an extra platoon of bayonets. They of course caved.

[illegible] RECORDER'S COURT.—Thomas White and [illegible]drew Foot arrested for drunken and disorderly conduct were each fined $[illegible] and [illegible] [illegible]d and parties discharged.

George Thomas for same offense fined $[illegible] and costs and in default of payment sent to county jail for two days.

[illegible] Wilson for disorderly and indecent conduct in stripping himself and running a foot race upon the public square on Sunday afternoon, was arraigned by Deputy City Marshal and Recorder fined him in the slight sum of [illegible] and costs, and in default of payment committed him to county jail for four days. We were no little surprised at this last case, as the disgraceful conduct of the rowdy referred to justly merited a much heavier penalty. The Recorder should have imposed a fine of at least [illegible]0, and committed him to county jail for [illegible] months besides. Such a high handed outrage upon the decency and reputation of the city should have been heavily punished. We are inclined to the opinion that our City Recorder is a little too much disposed to confine his leniency or mercy to within the sums of $5 or $10. He should, when the occasion demands, rebuke disorderly and disgraceful conduct on the part of such ruffians and [illegible] characters, with a severe penalty. The [illegible]ing of only $5 or $10 [illegible] too near a farce, and only tends to encourage rather than deter a repetition of such actions. In this connection we will state in justice to the city officials, that at the time of this disgraceful occurrence, all whose duty it was to be on the lookout were engaged with other cases and hence could not prevent the proceedings. But as soon as it was possible the offender was duly arrested and brought up for trial and punishment.

APOLOGETIC.—We are constitutionally opposed to making apologies through the columns of a newspaper except in extreme cases, but when we are convinced that a serious injury is likely to result from an unintentional allusion or public statement made by us relative to any gentleman of high toned feeling, we feel in duty bound to make the amend honorable, and place the injured party aright before the public if in our power. These remarks are called forth from a professional visit to our sanctum early yesterday morning, of an individual notoriously known as Nibbs, who politely informed us that although he did [illegible] the itemizing for [illegible] my paper [illegible] and the [illegible]orner, yet he would prefer not having his name publicly used in connection with that paper—leaving us to guess the reason.

DEPARTURE OF THE OREGON.—The ocean steamer Oregon sailed last evening about [illegible] o'clock, direct for San Francisco—with considerable freight and about 200 passengers. Wells, Fargo & Co. shipped $2[illegible]0,000 in dust, and we are well assured by persons who have made a particular inquiry, that nearly if not quite $200,000 more goes in the hands of passengers. One gentleman takes $57,000, and many more a large amount, all from the mines to the East of us. Where is your Cariboo or any other mines that can equal this. Wells, Fargo & Co. are doing a heavy business, and deserve much credit for the energy and efficient manner of conducting the business of their Express.

ACCIDENT.—The proprietor of the American House, of this city, met with an unfortunate accident yesterday while driving a band of beef cattle on board the ferry boat. One of the animals jumped overboard and in the struggle to get the brute back on the boat this gentleman was struck by the animal, dislocating his shoulder. The wound is serious though not dangerous.

REMOVED.—The City Council Chamber, Recorder's and City Marshal's offices have been removed to second story of brick building on Front, between Washington and Alder streets, immediately over cigar store of H. Wasserman & Co. A much nicer and more convenient and comfortable room than the one previously occupied.

NO LATER.—The Julia brought nothing later from the mines, last evening. The Express did not connect above the Dalles. About 80 passengers came down—many in not very good plight, while no small number had immense bags of the precious dust. But a small amount by hands of Wells, Fargo & Co.

The new County officers for Multnomah County were duly qualified yesterday and entered upon the duties of their respective offices. The official term [illegible] State [illegible] and Circuit Judges com[illegible] in September.

Commissioners' Court of Multnomah County will meet on Thursday next.

We learn that the steamer in course of construction at Vancouver, is fast being completed, and that there is no doubt that in a few weeks more it will be completed and placed upon the route from Oregon City to the Cascades, as an independent boat.

WHAT DEMOCRACY MEANS.—A call for a democratic primary meeting has been issued at Dutch Flat, Placer county, Cal., addressed to all "who are inflexibly opposed to the administration of Mr. Lincoln in every sense of the word!"

The Declaration of Independence was read before the dinner—[illegible] [illegible] Capt. Knight [illegible] [illegible] different gentlemen [illegible] Mr. W. I. Hill, Mr. Brown, Maj. [illegible] Mr. Struve, Rev. D. McCarty, Mr. [illegible], Dr. Cole, Rev. Mr. [illegible], [illegible] and Mr. [illegible]

We [illegible] [illegible] that the celebration at this place was [illegible] fine [illegible] [illegible] the ladies the [illegible] There were many officers and soldiers of the garrison [illegible] the regret was expressed that the [illegible] coming at an earlier hour and partaking with them [illegible] [illegible] Major [illegible] [illegible] Dr. Magr[illegible] [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] [illegible] others who we did not recognize.

We can scarcely [illegible] to mention the beautiful and patriotic [illegible] of Rev. D. McCarty and Rev. Wm. Rayner. Dr. McCarty did not from his position [illegible] [illegible] political affairs [illegible] he regarded the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the past [illegible] Mr. Lincoln had to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the government, [illegible] [illegible] to the government, [illegible] fully to be successful was his own policy—and that while Washington would ever remain the first in war, the first in peace and the first in the hearts of his countrymen, the services of Abraham Lincoln in all future time would place him next to Washington. When the Doctor finished the [illegible] [illegible] approbation which echoed from the hills and over the forests that skirted the Oregon.

We left the ground highly pleased with what we had seen, enjoyed and heard. We [illegible] this feeling was general through the whole crowd. May our Vancouver friends see many happy returns of Freedom's Natal Day.

The Fatal Trick—A Tiger Loose

O. W. H. [illegible]

Upon one evening a party [illegible] and young bloods of the town had met [illegible] at my rooms to play and carouse. In fact, it was a regular meeting of [illegible] which [illegible] bled twice a week. We kept it up [illegible] till midnight, when Somers proposed that we should sally forth and astonish the [illegible] with some well planned and well done [illegible] mischief. Without any one of us having a conception of our action or intentions [illegible] ed the proposition with drunken rapture, and started forth.

A traveling menagerie had arrived in town the day before, and among the wonders was a young bear. The poor animal had been so well beaten, that he became very humble, and acquired a number of amusing tricks. Of this we were all well aware, having visited the menagerie the day before. Just as we passed the spot where the animals were confined, it occurred to me what rare sport it would be to capture young Bruin and place him in the chemical lecture room, to astonish on the next day, the professor and the class.

No sooner had I made the proposition to this effect, than it was adopted and all volunteered their assistance in carrying it into execution. The tent or pavilion which covered the beasts, was erected in the yard of the principal tavern. The cages, each containing one or more animals, were iron grated boxes standing on wheels, by means of which they had been dragged into town. They were arranged around the interior of the tents forming a circular array of wood and iron. Not imagining that any one would disturb the animals, the showmen and inmates of the tavern left the tents entirely unwatched. Thus we were afforded a clear field in which to execute our scheme. After several of our number had been posted as sentinels, the rest crept in under the canvas and entered the arena. It was sometime before we could in the deep darkness of the place, identify the cage in which our friend Bruin had been put to sleep. After stumbling over divers things, which lay scattered about, and peering here and there in the dark, we found the object of our search.—There in a substantial cage was the dim outline of the animal, his two white eyes flashing drops of fire at being aroused from his quiet slumber.

The next difficulty that occurred to us was the mode of conveying him to the college, which was several hundred yards distant.—Some of the revellers proposed that we should throw a halter round his neck, and so drag him along.

We objected to it, not from any personal fear, since we had arrived at that point which makes one oblivious of danger, but lest we should be seen by some late struggler and have our fun spoiled. A better plan was after much scheming, devised, and one which met with universal acquiescence.

In the tavern yard stood a water hogshead, with a sliding lid, fastened by means of hasp and staple. We had only to roll this in, slide down the box from the wheels, open the door immediately in front of the hogshead and drive the animal in. We could then push down the lid of the cask, secure it by means of a rope passed through the staples, and roll our prisoner and prison house to the college.

No sooner was this suggested than we hastened to put it into execution. The cage, with our united efforts, slid quietly down from the wheels—Bruin growling all the while with anger—the hogshead was rolled in and placed upon an end in front of the cage, and the animal stirred up with our canes. With a terrific yell he rushed in, and we closed the lid suddenly down upon him, fastening it at the same time in a secure manner. The yell of bear roused the other animals, and our ears were regaled for the next ten minutes with a variety of hideous sounds that wakened fearfully the sleeping echoes of the night. The animal in the hogshead growled, and his voice came like distant thunder, so deafened was it by the wood in which he lay. His fellows had no incumberance to their voices, and they howled as clearly as though they had been in their native forests.

Fearful of being discovered, we remained quiet for some time, holding our breath, in suspense. But no one disturbed, or thought of disturbing us. The animals often started a chorus of strange noises during the night, and the keepers thinking nothing unusual to be the matter, merely cursed the unruly brutes for destroying the unity of their rest, and turning back went to sleep again.

As soon as quiet was restored, we slit a hole in the canvass, for we were afraid to emerge by the aperture which faced the tavern, rolled our hogshead through the yard to the back gate. This we unfastened and passed into the road, started at a quick rate for our spot of destruction. Over and over went the hogshead, the animal within growled at the rough treatment he experienced, and we nearly convulsed with laughter at the uncouthness of the noise which he made.

At length we reached the back part of the college, when one of our party climbed over the wall and unfastened the gate. We rolled in our prize to the back door of the laboratory, which was the place where our professor of chemistry lectured. We found that in consequence of the narrowness of the passage through the door the hogshead would not enter. Such being the case, we were about to start the animal through the open door, when an idea more redolent of fun struck the fancy of Somers. Back of the lecture room was a small apartment containing odds and ends, and which was not visited, perhaps, once a month. He said rightly that if we placed Bruin in this apartment he would not be likely to be discovered until some time during the noise he would be apt to make attracting attention, the plot would readily be brought to a crisis. We joined our strength, and upon our shoulders up went the hogshead until it was placed on a level with the window. A light young fellow, the smallest of the party, climbed up, hoisted up the window and slid up the lid of the cask. We shook the hogshead violently, but at first to no purpose.—The animal was thoroughly frightened and lay still, or with only an occasional growl.—We shook it again and he started. There was but one possible mode of progression, which was straight forward, and the brute gave a spring through the window. There was a crash of glass, a howl, and then the terrified animal crouching in the corner, remained silent. Our little companion closed the sash and leaped down. We rolled the hogshead up into a corner of the yard and returning to our rooms, continued our revelry till near daylight.

(To be concluded.)

AN ASTONISHED "ABORIGINE."—A Salt Lake correspondent, in speaking of the Overland Telegraph relates the following:

Talking about telegraphs the first message received over the wires was a stunner, and [illegible] directed to his Satanic Majesty [illegible]. It appears that the workmen were engaged in hauling taut the wire preparatory to [illegible] a team; the banks [illegible] were high and abrupt, and among them at the extreme end nearest the bank, was a "gentleman savage" who had, contrary to Indian nature, concluded to work [illegible] days to get a dollar to expend for whiskey and [illegible]. They were surging away on the wire, when a little streak of electricity came dashing along from a point a hundred miles away, where a thunder storm was raging, and quicker than any hot potato was ever dropped was the metal from the hands of the hunters, who understood it, all except Mr Indian, who was suddenly seen to execute a war dance, with his eyes rolling; but he couldn't let go in time, the shock itself of which the slight sensation had been a precursor formed a "continuity" with the "native," and suddenly a very flat pair of feet were seen pointing heavenward and the Indian supposed to own them going down in a crescent like curve, head first into the creek.—For a moment he disappeared, but immediately emerged, scrambled up the bank, took one wild look behind him and then ran as no Indian ever ran before, with every hair straight up like a porcupine's, so stiff you could hang a pickax on it. That Indian has never been seen in that vicinity since. He must consider the telegraph a perfect stunner, a shocking affair.

FROM MEXICO.—The last arrival from Acapulco brought the following items:

Mazatlan was blockaded by two French men of war. They had threatened to bombard the city, when news was sent to them that if they did so all the French residents would be shot. This prevented the vessels from any attempt, but they will continue to blockade the port.

Matters generally about Acapulco are quiet. News had arrived at Tepic to the effect that the Church party who had held that place had promised to go against the common enemy (the French) if the liberals would send reinforcements. Seven hundred of the best Government troops were sent in response, when suddenly they were set upon and 400 of their number massacred by the treacherous party inviting them.

FROM CHINA.—Latest advices from China to May 1[illegible]th, represent that the great rebellion still raged, and the French and English allies were fighting it and had met with some successes, including the capture of Kah-ding, a crenelated city about as large as Shanghai. Their loss is reported trifling. The American steamer Surprise which left San Francisco not long since, had been fired at from some shore batteries on the Yang-tze river, but sustained no damage. The shots were believed to be only a warning to "keep moving," but the circumstance would seem to argue badly for the present free navigation of that river.

Previous reports of there being a rebel privateer in Chinese waters are confirmed by a letter received at San Francisco, dated Batavia, March 31st, which says a British war steamer spoke a rebel privateer steamer of eight guns in the Chinese seas.

SUPPOSED TO BE MURDERED BY INDIANS.—The Washoe Enterprise of June 17th expresses serious apprehensions that several small companies that started for Salmon river via Humboldt, have been murdered by the Indians. They had been gone three months, and had not been heard of.

Commissions have been received at San Francisco for the following postmasters: A. A. Hemenway, Long Tom, Lane county, Oregon; Samuel E. Haines, Jacksonville, Jackson county, Oregon.
